Camilla - "To the women out there that are dancing with the devil that is cancer: just know that you have a collective of warrior women that can help you navigate these unchartered waters. You are not alone! There’s is a sense of community when you become part of the booby gang. We all share a bond for life because we share a similar story. My breast cancer story is no different to so many others, but if I can help raise hope, awareness and funds then I will continue to use my voice and advocate wherever I can."
