

Ed Dandridge

Chair of the Board of Directors, Susan G. Komen®

---

Ed Dandridge, is the Senior Vice President of Communications at The Boeing Company. He oversees all aspects of Boeing's communications, including business unit communications, corporate communications, media relations, public affairs, leadership communications, employee engagement and corporate branding, as well as channel and content marketing. Prior to joining Boeing In September 2020, Dandridge was global chief marketing and communications officer for AIG General Insurance, serving on the executive leadership team of the property and casualty business, which markets and distributes products and services to commercial clients, individual customers and distribution networks in more than 80 countries. Ed serves on The Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia's Presidential Advisory Committee. A member of The Executive Leadership Council, Ed serves on its Board of Directors. Ed received his B.A. from Tufts University, with honors, and J.D. from University of Pennsylvania Law School.

