

QUESTIONS TO ASK YOUR DOCTOR

Using Artificial Intelligence (AI) to Find Breast Cancer Clinical Trials

Before Using an AI Tool:

Q: What kinds of clinical trials might be a good fit for me, such as trials for immunotherapy, targeted therapy, chemotherapy, radiation therapy, surgery, survivorship trials and/or care that helps with symptoms and side effects?

A: _____

Q: Do I need any additional tests before I look for clinical trials, or are there tests that could affect my eligibility, such as genetic testing, tumor testing, blood tests, scans or a new biopsy?

A: _____

Q: What words or phrases should I use when I search online or use an AI tool to find clinical trials?

A: _____

Q: What trial locations are realistic for me, considering my treatment plan, travel needs, insurance and support at home?

A: _____

Q: Who on my care team can help me look over possible trial matches before I contact a study team?

A: _____

Q: If I use an online or AI-based clinical trial search tool, how will my personal and medical information be kept private and secure?

A: _____

After an AI Tool Identifies a Possible Clinical Trial:

Q: Why did this AI tool identify this trial as a possible match for me, and why might it be a good fit for my type of breast cancer?

A: _____

Q: What tests, appointments, travel, costs and time would be involved?

A: _____

Q: Would I keep getting my regular treatment or get the study treatment?

A: _____

Q: What side effects or risks should I know about before I decide to participate in a trial?

A: _____

Q: Can I leave a trial at any time and what happens if I stop participating?

A: _____

Q: Will I receive updates about the study's findings, and how will the results be shared with me once the trial is complete?

A: _____

Q: If this trial seems like a good fit, what should I do next?

A: _____
