

Stand For H.E.R. Health Equity Revolution

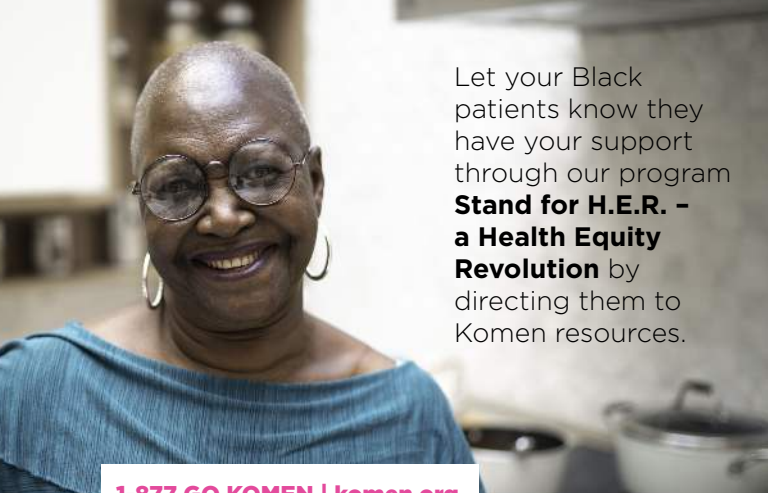

Black women are about 40% more likely to die from breast cancer than white women. At Susan G. Komen, we believe in equitable access to care to improve outcomes for Black patients.

Together, we can achieve health equity for Black patients and improve breast cancer outcomes for everyone.

Our program Stand for H.E.R. – a Health Equity Revolution ensures quality breast care for all. Your patients know they can count on you.

Let your Black patients know they have your support through our program Stand for H.E.R. – a Health Equity Revolution by directing them to Komen resources.

When you refer your patients to our Breast Care Helpline, we:

- Answer questions about their breast cancer risk
- Provide information about breast cancer screening, treatment options, clinical trials, and genetic counseling and testing
- Support access to screening and diagnostic services
- Offer financial assistance for income-eligible breast cancer patients in treatment
- Connect them to a culturally responsive patient navigator

To ensure your patients get the best possible care at every step of their breast health journey, Susan G. Komen is committed to helping them – and you – provide the support and resources they need.
